DECREE OF COURT BEING VIOLATED

Charged That Standard Oil Is Still a Holding Company.

New York, September 28.—Charges that both the spirit and letter of the decree dissolving the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey are being violated were sent to the Department of Justice at Washington to-day by S. W. Fordyce, Jr., counsel for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

The charges are contained in a memorandum submitted by Mr. Fordyce and are based on testimony adduced at hearings in New York and elsewhere in the litigation involving the right of the Standard Oil to name officers and directors of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

Mr. Fordyce asserts that the testimony has "proven" that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is still a holding company and owns and controls many oil companies engaged in interstate and foreign commerce, and that it has used at least two companies—the American Petroleum and the Deutsche-Amerikanische Gaseellschaft—to assist in maintaining the control of the Texas refineries, against which the United States obtained a decree.

"It has been proven," Mr. Fordyce further charges, "that the marketing companies that were formerly subsidiary to the New Jersey company, and the New Jersey Company itself maintained with utmost strictness the territorial division that they were ordered to dissolve. It has proved that they supply their marketing stations from the refineries most advantageously located regardless of the ownership of these refineries. We have also shown that the pipe lines are managed for the common use of all the subsidiary companies and no others, and that the Union Tank Line has practically all the supposedly independent companies, all executed on or about the same date."

FLUE IN FEAR OF VOLCANO.

Residents of Guadalajara, Mexico, Are Leaving the City.

San Francisco, September 28.—Passengers on the Pacific Mail steamer City of Peru, which arrived here yesterday from Central American ports, said that thousands of persons were leaving the Mexican city of Guadalajara, fearing that the district would be buried by an eruption of a volcano.

It was said that a population of 140,000 persons, nearly one-third had sought safety in flight. Many houses were destroyed by an earthquake September 1. Several smaller shocks have been felt since then, and the residents fear an eruption.

STAR WITNESSES APPEAR THIS WEEK

Roosevelt and Morgan Will Testify Before Senate Committee.

SENSATIONS IN PROSPECT

Expected to Tell What They Know About Campaign Gifts.

Witnesses to Be Called This Week

Monday—C. N. Bliss, Jr., Ormsby McLean, Charles A. Peabody and C. C. Tetterton.

Tuesday—William Filan and Elton Hooker.

Wednesday—Senator Joseph M. Dixon.

Thursday—J. Pierpont Morgan.

Friday—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

Saturday—No witnesses.

Other star witnesses to be called later—Congressman William B. McKinley, John D. Archbold, August Belmont, Chauncey M. Depew, Postmaster-General Hitchcock, William B. Hearst, W. F. McCombs, Joseph G. Cannon, Frank A. Munsey, George W. Perkins, Thomas F. Ryan, Wayne MacVeagh, E. H. Gary, James R. Day.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, September 28.—Lorimer, Ismay, Roosevelt and Morgan. The same witness stand that did duty when the steamship man told the tragic story of the sinking of the Titanic, and the former Senator of Illinois, testified in a losing battle to retain his tongue, will hold a former President and New York's money king when the two appear before the Clapp committee of the Senate next week to tell their part in the past decade of political financing.

The selection of the same chair for the use of the Colonel and Morgan as was used by Ismay and Lorimer was quite accidental.

Before these "stars" appear Cornelius Bliss, Jr., son of the 1904 treasurer of the Republican National Committee, will take the stand Monday morning, after 10 o'clock, on Monday morning, will begin by telling the committee what books and papers he has relating to campaign gifts to his father, as treasurer of the Republican National Committee of 1904. He will be allowed to make any preliminary or explanatory statement that he desires. Then will follow the grilling by the Senators.

Ormsby McLean, who managed Roosevelt's pre-election campaign, will follow him. He will be sharply questioned as to his knowledge of the contests that were inaugurated in the South last winter, and spring in behalf of Roosevelt delegates to the Republican National Convention at Chicago.

Charles A. Peabody was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee in 1904. He will be questioned about campaign gifts of that year to the Democratic National Committee. Together, the last witness of the day, may produce some papers of the late E. H. Harriman, bearing on the alleged contribution of $250,000 by that financier for the Republican presidential campaign.

Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, one of the most skillful lawyers in the Senate, will conduct the cross-examination of Colonel Roosevelt, Morgan and the other witnesses. He will try to develop admissions that have a far-reaching effect in the present campaign for the presidency, and that may go down as the most important political history in generations.

Three police men will keep a mob of the curious from rushing into the committee room. Prospects are that they will have a call for reinforcements.

Three of the members of the Senate committee are already in the city. They are Senators Clapp, Pomerene and Oliver. Senator Fawcett, of Kentucky, will arrive here Monday. Senator Jones has started from his home in Washington and will be here the middle of the week.

Senator Oliver had a conference to-day with Senator Clapp. He said he fully approved the arrangements made by Clapp. He did not know when Senator Pomerene, of Pennsylvania, expected to be an interested spectator, would arrive here for the hearings. Senator Pomerene declined to discuss his plans for the hearings or to say what questions he has prepared to submit to Roosevelt.

Some of the interesting features of the inquiry will be statements of campaign expenses from Senator La Follette, Congressman Oscar Underwood, Speaker Champ Clark and Governor Sherman, of Ohio, holders of presidential honors. Each of these four men may be summoned as witnesses.

SINNOTT IS RELEASED

Covered's Jury Finds Killing of Girl Was Unavoidable.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, September 28.—"Unavoidable accident" was the verdict rendered by a coroner's jury here late this afternoon in the case of William A. Sinnott, of Richmond, the Washington chauffeur, who last night ran over and killed nine-year-old Marie Ketchum. The child was playing near her home and about 6 o'clock was called to dinner by her father. Starting to cross the street she ran directly in front of the automobile driven by Sinnott. She was then on her way to the Union Station. Headless of the danger she was knocked down and her skull crushed. A quick run was made to the Emergency Hospital, but before an operation could be performed there she died.

Last night when arrested and at the inquest to-day Sinnott maintained that the accident was unavoidable. The verdict, therefore, in accordance with his statement in the case. Sinnott was released from custody when the verdict was rendered.

ARMY ON ALERT—LORIMER.

French and German Peace Delegates Support Autonomy for Spain. Geneva, Switzerland, September 28.—The granting of complete autonomy to Spain is regarded as one of the federated German states would, in the opinion of the French and German delegates to the international peace conference, be a decided step toward better relations between France and Germany. They presented a resolution to this effect to-day, and it was adopted by the conference.

An Attractive September Bride

COLONEL BITTER AGAINST WILSON

by an untruth, but is the direct reverse of the truth; and this Mr. Wilson well knows. Now, Mr. Wilson has an entire right to attack and criticize my actual position as strongly as he chooses. And he has an entire right, if he thinks it in good taste, to indulge in the personalities about me in which he has recently indulged—as to who shall copy him. But he has no right to misquote me and to attribute to me words which I have never used.

"Mr. Wilson asserted that I did an 'illegal thing in order to build an irresistible power' in permitting the purchase by the United States Steel Corporation of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. As to this I need only refer to my testimony before the Senate committee, where I went into every detail of the transaction. It is simply nonsense to say that I did an illegal thing.

"Down at the bottom of his heart, Mr. Wilson's real objection to my proposal to control the trusts is that it is altogether too drastic. For Mr. Wilson to speak of our plan as one to transfer our own affairs into the hands of the trusts is utter, sheer nonsense.

"The other day Mr. Taft expressed, as Mr. Wilson already has expressed, his apprehension lest under the system we propose the trusts would own the government. The slightest thought would show both these worthy alarmists that the timidity is not justified. All they have to do is to look at the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is exercising just the kind of control over the big interstate railroads which we propose to exercise over big industrial concerns.

Attitude Is Identical. "The attitude of Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taft toward the judges and courts are identical. Each solemnly shakes his head over existing conditions and each proposes a remedy, and each efficient remedy proposed and has none to suggest in their place."

At New Haven the other day Mr. Wilson made a speech in which he opposed the recall of judges. This speech is thoroughly characteristic of Mr. Wilson's whole attitude. He says that the treatment proposed is to treat the symptoms instead of the disease, or what is the remedy. He says there can be no 'moral obligation' to removing wicked judges, and he opposes the recall. He says we should go to the seat of authority for improvement, and then does not tell us how we are to get there, and ends with a beautiful peroration which has about the same relation to his subject that was borne by the peroration of the immortal Elijah P. Morgan, when, in defending a defaulting postmaster, he stated that his proud answer to the tyrant and oppressor was that his home was in the setting sun."

The nature of a remedy Mr. Wilson proposes is general advice to be more careful in choosing judges. "The Progressive party looks not to the rear for a remedy for existing ills, but to the front, and not to the past, with its sometimes amiable and sometimes brutal, but always limited and narrow, spirit of competition, but to the future, with its twentieth century doctrine of co-operation, to master the spirit of crude and brutal competition. The Progressive party embodies the true and characteristic American spirit."

BLOW TO REPUBLICANS

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] San Francisco, Cal., September 28.—Attorney-General Webb to-day gave it as his official opinion that the Taft electors cannot go on the ballot under the Republican party designation. He declared under the new Ballot Boxes electors alone are entitled to go on the ballot under the designation of Republican. Webb holds the convention held in accordance with the constitution of the third-term party was the only convention that the Secretary of State can consider as authoritative, and the electors named by the convention are to be placed on the ballot, despite the fact that they are pledged to vote for Roosevelt, if they are electors.

The only hope of Taft Republicans now is to appeal to the courts, as it would require 160,000 names on a petition to put the Taft electors on the ballot.

JERSEY LILY HAS SECRET OF YOUTH

Believes Cheerful Thoughts Keep One Young and Healthy.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, September 28.—Mrs. Langtry, now Lady De Bathe, arrived in New York this morning on the Cedric. It is the first visit of the actress to America since she was here in 1906, then, as now, to fulfill a vaudeville engagement.

The actress, who once was known as the Jersey Lily, submitted to half a dozen interviews, and posed for her photograph on the way up the bay from Quarantine; saw her goodly amount of luggage through the customs, and was driven to the Hotel Belle Claire, where she took her home while in New York.

"Tell us, Lady De Bathe, how you keep so young?" ventured one of her interviewers.

"Because I look as young?" she asked in reply. "I was rather afraid I looked tired and old."

Then she fell to talking of clothes. She told of a hat which Mme. Paquin had explained to her. "But isn't it rather too unusual even for me?" she asked Mme. Paquin. The modiste replied: "Nothing is too unusual which becomes the wearer."

"And Mme. Paquin is a woman of infinite taste," added Mrs. Langtry. "The newest gowns I saw in Paris," she continued, "inclined to a Grecian effect, with flowing lines. They follow the natural lines of the body. That is why I like the present styles."

"I was disappointed," she continued, "to see no colors on the American men I saw on the pier. At home the men are showing a tendency toward colors—a bright scarf, a colored waistcoat, even a suit which varies a little from the dull garb which makes all men look alike."

Lady De Bathe is a suffragist, but not of the militant type. "I am heart and soul in accord with the suffrage cause," she explained, "but I do not believe that anything is to be gained by smashing windows, and when one sets fire to a theatre that is going much too far. The appearance of those women arrested and forcibly fed has been described to me by those who have seen them after they were released. Their noses are dilated and their faces are deep lines in their faces. They are described as most pitiable."

"The American women are much more wise. They know better how to handle men. There is no militant branch to the movement here, as I understand, and already women vote in several of the States. It is argument and oral appeal, not the appeal of force or bricks, that will win for the suffrage movement, and being dragged through the streets of London with one's hat on appeals to the sympathy of the men."

Funeral services will be from his brother's residence, 221 North Twenty-eighth Street, TO-DAY at 3 P. M. Friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.

THACKER—Died at his home, Doanville, Hanover County, Va., September 26, 1912. MR. JOSEPH O. THACKER, in the sixty-first year of his age. one side and one's hair disheveled, screaming and clawing and fighting—that repels rather than attracts." Presided for the reason for her youth—the unfeeling books of figures say that Mrs. Langtry is now sixty years old—the actress replied: "I fancy a garden has as much to do with keeping one young as anything; don't you think so? If one worries and frets, that makes him or her grow old and ill, doesn't it? Cheerful thoughts keep one young and healthy."
